'STACKSTOCK Announces Lineup For Its Inaugural Music Festival On The Oregon Coast

Presented by Public Coast Brewing Co.

CANNON BEACH, Ore. - 'STACKSTOCK, the first music festival to bring some of the region's best established and emerging rock and pop bands to the Oregon coast, has announced the lineup for its inaugural festival. The festival takes place on Saturday, Sept. 23 at Haystack Gardens, just steps from the beach in Cannon Beach, and includes headliners Pure Bathing Culture and The Decemberist's Colin Meloy, among many others.

The 'STACKSTOCK lineup includes everything from the dreamy pop sounds of bands like Pure Bathing Culture and Cardioid to the "raw choral pop" sounds of Portland's Ages and Ages, the latin-influenced Edna Vazquez Acoustic Trio, and the woodsy harmonies of Wonderly. Headlining it all: the folk rock ballads of The Decemberist's Colin Meloy. A special treat—Portland's OK Chorale PDX will be in the house to turn the entire festival audience into a one-night-only pop band.

"The North Coast of Oregon is not really on the tour schedule for big name acts like Colin Meloy or Pure Bathing Culture," says festival founder Ryan Snyder, adding, "'STACKSTOCK is my way of sharing this incredibly unique music with the community here and our visitors alike."

'STACKSTOCK offers fans the rare chance to see these top bands in such an intimate setting, and unlike most festivals, 'STACKSTOCK is unique in encouraging attendees to come and go throughout the day. Take a beach stroll, grab a coffee, and come back when ready. See the website for a list of local accommodations. Presented by Cannon Beach's Public Coast Brewing Co's, Public Coast beers will be on tap, plus tasty eats from the Wayfarer Restaurant's Chef Josh Archibald and his mobile smokehouse. Desserts will served by the Ruby Jewel Ice Cream cart.
